Peninsula Sports Club President

Everette "Sonny" Seay, III

Welcome to the 66th Annual Headliner's Night, and the Peninsula Sports Club's opportunity to once again recognize many of the talented and accomplished sporting individuals from our area. Since the Club's inception in 1949, one of the missions has been to honor annually persons who have devoted their time and efforts to advancing sports on the Peninsula and beyond. So this evening you will hear and read about those selected this year.

Some are at the beginning of their sporting journey, and others are in the midst of long and decorated careers which have brought them to us tonight. Athletes with long lists of accomplishments; organizers, planers and a sport owner with many objectives reached; and one who has for years in printed word delivered many accounts of sporting events for our pleasure.

Additionally, you will be introduced to those who have achieved in the class room, and will tonight have earned a scholarship for use in advancing their educational endeavors. For these young persons, we are especially proud to support them. They represent some of the Peninsula's finest student athletes, and with their scholarship will allow the PSC to have contributed over $160,000 to this Club project.

We, in the PSC, are proud of our contributions to the Peninsula sporting community, and invite any of you to join with us. I would encourage you to question any members present tonight about the PSC; to view our PSC website; and to visit our membership table located just outside this ball room for a membership application. We welcome anyone interested in becoming a member of the PSC to any of our events as they all are open to the public.

On behalf of the PSC Membership, Board, Officers and myself, congratulations to all of our honorees, a thank you to each of you for attending, and the extension of an invitation to all to attend a PSC event in the very near future. We look forward to having you!

Most respectfully,

Sonny Seay

CLUB

Since its founding in 1949, the Peninsula Sports Club has been an active force on the sports scene. The 1st Headliner's Night was held in 1950 and continues to recognize high school, college and professional athletes, coaches and volunteers from local communities. In 1955, the first All-Peninsula football team was honored. In 1958, baseball, basketball and track were added.

The Club became involved in community projects, advocating a "civic center" which became the Hampton Coliseum, and was involved in bringing professional basketball back to the Peninsula in 1963. In 2011, we were proud to incorporate the Foundation to enhance the Club and its offerings. The Club provides financial aid to high school athletes throughout the greater peninsula area through the scholarship program and is active with many events throughout the peninsula through our membership.

The goals of the Club have remained the same over the years; to identify and recognize Peninsula citizens who promote sport activities or make outstanding contributions to perpetuate community athletics; and to recognize outstanding Peninsula athletes, many of whom have gained national acclaim. The Club continues to recognize and honor the successes of female and male high school and college athletes throughout the area.

We welcome new membership continuously and should you wish to become a member, we offer many levels; single, family, institute and/or corporate membership to this fine organization, please contact us at:

Robert Banks

Who was the Columbus (Ohio) Touchdown Club's High School Player of the Year in 1982?

If you guessed Williamsburg native Robert Banks, who starred at Hampton High School and Notre Dame, not Ohio State, you're correct. He began his high school days at Peninsula Catholic before transferring to Queen Street.

Banks, named the Peninsula Sports Club's Outstanding High School Athlete in 1983, was the seventh round draft pick of the Houston Oilers in 1987 and finished his NFL career with the Cleveland Browns in 1990. He is a member of both the Virginia High School Hall of Fame and the Lower Virginia Peninsula Athletic Hall of Fame.

At Notre Dame, he spent two of his three years starting on the defense with Mike Golic of ESPN's famed "Mike & Mike" radio show, first at defensive end and then at outside linebacker.

He led Hampton High School to 35 consecutive victories and its first back-to-back state titles in 1980 and '81. Banks was the first player in Virginia history to be named Associated Press all-state on both sides of the ball in consecutive years.

Banks works and resides in Texas, but still visits the Peninsula to see his parents. He has worked in education for 16 years. He and his wife Cheryl have a son and a daughter.

Guest Speaker - Robert Banks

Henry Morgan

It's unlikely there's a more modest and unassuming yet caring owner of a baseball team than Henry Morgan of the Peninsula Pilots. He just doesn't fit the owners mold. Think Peter Angelos, George Steinbrenner, et al. Morgan considers himself the Pilots "caretaker" and insists on being identified in that fashion on the team's website staff listing.

The Pilots play in the Coastal Plain League, which like its more famous relative on Cape Cod features teams composed solely of active college players, who spend their summers competing with wooden bats in hopes of becoming professionals. Peninsula, one of 15 entries in the CPL, has won the last two league championships.

To get a better feel Morgan, who was thrust into a Coastal Plains League team ownership situation in 2000 after chairing the Peninsula Stadium Authority, consider his website comments after a regular season game in August of 2014. "Baseball fans are the best… Pilot fans are the best! Last night in addition to an exciting Pilots win in front of almost 2,500 fans who were totally in the game on a beautiful evening, the Pilots organization raised $2,000 for Bryan Robinson's family."

That's the ideal environment that Morgan strives for at every Pilots game in a 67-year-old War Memorial Stadium he was instrumental in rejuvenating. A Peninsula game is all about family participation and helping the community get involved in making life a little better.

Jeff Scott has served as Pilots general manager for 10 years and has often experienced the effects of Morgan's modest magic on Kentucky Ave. "Henry's involvement with the Pilots has been astronomical," Scott said. "He's low key, but is a whiz at community relations. He spends entire games circulating in the stands and by night's end has gotten to know something about a lot of fans that will keep many of them coming back to the park for another positive experience.

"His motto is building the franchise one fan at a time and with our championship success the last two years, we're hearing more and more from fans who had no idea what was going on here and now are anxiously coming back. We really are a family."

Morgan's unwavering community awareness is evident in team activities that have raised thousands of dollars to help non-profit organizations as well as unfortunate individuals whose lives have been dealt a severe blow by illness or injury.

One of Morgan's favorite times is at game's end hanging out at the exit gate and having a final word with fans. "I see a father with a young son and hope that someday the son will return with a child of his own in tow." Morgan said. He remembers the infant days of the franchise and thinking he'd be happy just housing some of the players for the summer and sitting back to watch games with a hotdog and a beer.

"We had no plan and I remember asking an early manager what I could do to help and his primary concern was getting a 7-foot-pitcher," Morgan said. "But things slowly evolved with the help of then intern Mike Smith from Yale, who became an executive for several Major League teams. We got more competitive by 2003. Hank (Henry's son) came aboard as general manager and when he took over as manager in 2007 he really connected with the players."

The triumvirate of both Morgans and GM Scott brought a much-needed consistency and stability to the franchise mix. That continuity led to an easier chore securing quality players. The Pilots became a playoff fixture and have been to the postseason nine consecutive years. Instead of weeks compiling a roster, the task is done in several days.

Largely due to Morgan's efforts, Peninsula's attendance average has climbed past 2,000 in a facility that holds 3,750. That number is far higher than many of the Carolina League professional teams that labored at War Memorial Stadium in the past.

The elder Morgan, like his son, is a big favorite of Pilots players. "Henry loves being around the players," said his wife Sue, who also logs many hours helping behind the scenes. "It keeps him feeling younger."

Morgan, whose day job was running two small construction companies, has always been a baseball guy. His first coaching effort came in the Hampton-Wythe Little League in 1979. He eventually became league president. After 10 years, he moved on to coach the Hampton Post 31 American Legion team and in the Phoebus Senior League.

He earned the prestigious Bud Metheny Award in 2008 after devoting much of his life and resources to youth baseball activities. In 2013, he was named Daily Press Citizen of the Year. In typical Morgan fashion he questioned his worthiness of the honor, saying the Pilots represented the community not Henry Morgan.

The ''caretaker" won't ever change, thank goodness.

—Mike Keech

Congratulations HENRY

Thanks for all you do for the people who love the game of baseball!

Julian Rice Trophy

Julian Rice thought of himself as a winner. In his mind, Newport News High School never really lost an athletic contest, no matter what the scoreboard said.

Now, of course, there is no longer a NNHS and Newport News Intermediate has gone the way of all flesh.

Possessed with a hunger for statistical trivia, Rice developed a virtually unparalleled penchant for details concerning minor league baseball and high school sports on the Peninsula, Newport News in particular. The point system used to select a winner encompasses all Peninsula District sports.

Nevertheless, his zeal and support for teams representing this area — once his beloved Typhoon was no longer in contention — made him a legend in his own time.

Time ran out for the perpetual pipe smoker in 1967, and the Peninsula Sports Club decided to honor him with an award named for him in 1970.

The roving, highly-coveted honor is awarded the Peninsula District Group AAA high school which has accumulated the most points during a year of competition. Tabulation is designed to follow systems embraced by college conferences. Schools now eligible for this award are Bethel, Denbigh, Gloucester, Hampton, Heritage, Kecoughtan, Menchville, Phoebus, Warwick and Woodside.

Rice, incidentally, was the Peninsula Sports Club's first secretary.

His enthusiasm for all sports and sporting events led to a perpetuation of the trophy.

Eligible schools are Bruton, Poquoson, York, Tabb, Grafton, Layfayette, Jamestown and Warhill.

Like its Group AAA counterpart, the Rice Trophy, the Simpson Trophy symbolizes athletic excellence in all areas of competition at the AA level in what was the York River District and is now the Bay Rivers District.

Red Simpson is a name synonymous with athletic excellence within the York River District, and the Peninsula. The kindly Newport News native administered, taught at, and coached at two of the member schools, leaving never to be forgotten memories, records, and a number of pupils and players who returned to their alma maters to carry on his legacy.

An outstanding athlete in his own right, his record in the javelin throw stood for many years in collegiate ranks. At the University of Kentucky, he was mentioned on a number of All-American football teams, and played in the fabled East-West Shrine Game in 1938.

His return to the Peninsula marked the beginning of his coaching career, as he served as an assistant to Coach Frank Dobson at The Apprentice School (he also played for a semi-pro team known as the Builders which had a number of former high school grid stars).

After a stint in the Navy, he returned to coaching and led Poquoson High School to a State Championship in 1949. Along came another war, and Red served again in Korea (he retired from the Naval Reserve in 1965 as a Lieutenant Commander).

Back home again after two and one half years serving his country, he moved on to a new school in 1954. In 1958, his York High Falcons won a league championship with a perfect 9-0 record, defeating some larger Group I Schools in the process.

Red moved on up the administrative ladder in the educational system to Athletic Director, and later Assistant Principal, giving up his first love, coaching, but he left behind a record of championships, of memories of him as a kind, honest, competitor; a man to be emulated.

It is entirely fitting that Poquoson High, where he first coached in high school, should win the first Simpson Trophy, and that Tabb High, whose Athletic Director Willard Hunt played under Red, and Head Coach Charlie Hovis, who began his coaching career under Red, should win the second Simpson Trophy.

Red Simpson, a man to be looked up to and copied. We are proud that he was with us.

SPORTS PERSON EMERITUS AWARD

Bobby Mears

Newport News native Bobby Mears has devoted more than two decades of his talent, time and concern for young men through sports on the Peninsula.

From 1968-72, he served as an assistant baseball coach to Billy Cardwell and helped guide Newport News American Legion Post 25 to a pair of state championships and regional appearances. He managed Post 25 from 1973-75 and his 1973 team achieved the only unbeaten regular season in Peninsula American Legion history.

Mears also served as head baseball coach at The Apprentice School from 1972-74 after a one-year stint as an assistant coach under Cardwell.

In 1969, he began a six-year run as a scout for the Montreal Expos.

The Vietnam veteran also spent 13 years as a member of the Peninsula Board 125 of basketball officials as well as being a long-time flag football official for the City of Newport News.

Mears also authored a successful baseball playing career. He was a star pitcher for both Newport News High School and Post 25. In 1961, he recorded the first no-hitter in the history of Old Dominion College, now Old Dominion University. He played for the Hampton Royals semi-professional team from 1959-62 and registered a win and a save during a doubleheader.

Returning from the 1958 Typhoon squad are Bobby Mears, Dan Rouse, Donnie White, and Horace Underwood.

Deron Mayo

When he's not helping the Canadian Football League's Calgary Stampeders win the Grey Cup Championship, Kecoughtan High and Old Dominion University alumnus, Deron Mayo is active in community service projects in Calgary.

Mayo's most recent project was participating in the team's annual McDonald's McHappy Day fundraiser in May. The event had a special meaning for star linebacker Mayo because his wife Janelle has been working for the Ronald McDonald House for the past nine months. Families stay at Calgary's Ronald McDonald House when they come to the city for their children's medical treatment

Mayo, who has played three years for Calgary, was the official spokesperson for McHappy Day.

"Having a personal connection with some of the families at the Ronald McDonald House makes raising money for them even more exciting for me," Mayo said on the Stampeders website.

On the field, the 225-pound defender sparked the 2014 Grey Cup champions with 67 tackles, two tackles for losses, two sacks and two fumble recoveries. He contributed six tackles and a forced fumble in the championship game.

In March, Mayo, whose brother Jerod is a linebacker for the Super Bowl champion New England Patriots and a previous Henry Jordan Award winner, signed a contract extension with Calgary.

"Deron has established himself as an excellent CFL linebacker and has become an important member of our defense," said Calgary coach John Hufnagel. "He has the ability to play sideline and is consistently around the football."

Mayo, 27, hungers for another championship. "Anything less than another Grey Cup will be a disappointment for us," he said.

SPECIAL ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Maurice Pierce

The accolades keep coming for Maurice Pierce, Hampton University's Director of Track & Field.

The product of Norfolk State and Warwick High will be an assistant coach for Team USA at this summer's IAAF World Outdoor Track & Field Championships in Beijing, China.

Pierce, who has guided the Lady Pirates to 12 Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference indoor championships, 10 outdoor titles and four cross country crowns in 13 years, will coach Team USA's sprinters and hurdlers at the August meet.

"I've coached Olympians and world champions at the individual level, but from a team standpoint this is the highest appointment I've had." Pierce said on the HU website.

Pierce also had an instant impact on the Pirate men's program, directing them to the 2013 MEAC outdoor championship in his first year with them. The Hampton men also won the 2014 indoor title.

He has coached more than 20 All-Americans, including four in the last four Olympics. Under Pierce's guidance, David Payne won the silver medal in the 110-meter hurdles in the 2008 Olympics.

He guided triple jumper Yvette Lewis and sprinter Francena McCorory to a total of five NCAA individual championships.

HAMPTON UNIVERSITY
THE STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE

John Piggott

John Piggott has run a long way since his 1983 graduation from Williamsburg's Lafayette High School.

The professional runner, one of the initial inductees in the Virginia Peninsula Road Racing Hall of Fame, hung up his cleats after competing in his 175th marathon (a 26.2-mile race) in March of this year at Newport News. That's 4,674 miles of marathon competition.

Piggott's career highlights include 11 marathon titles, a career-best time of 2:30.10 and completing an amazing 17-race schedule in 2008 at age 43, including six races in a 36-day period. His best time in that span was 2:34.34 and his worst was 2:41.04. He had four top ten finishes in those six races.

He was ranked second in the USA Master 40 and older division in 2007. In 2009, he finished with a No. 9 ranking.

His best memory is his second-place finish in his first marathon at Richmond in 1995. He ran a 2:44.4 that day and had a surprise visit from his then three-year-old daughter at the finish line.

Piggott's most interesting race came in 2010's Shamrock Marathon at Virginia Beach. He deliberately started last among over 2,600 runners to raise money for Haiti, which had been ravished by an earthquake that killed 200,000 people. Piggott's goal was to earn pledge money from every runner he passed in that race for Haitian relief. He finished seventh to make more than $7,000 for the Haitian cause.

He has served as an assistant track coach at Lafayette High school and works in maintenance at Ford's Colony. Piggott has a wife Shannon and four children, Sharrryse, Shay, Daysha and John.

SPECIAL ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

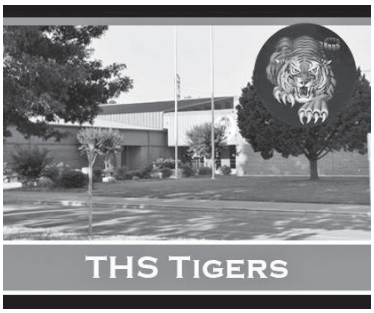
Most Outstanding High School Female Athlete

Kara Enoch

In a senior season that was delayed by a broken foot, Tabb's Kara Enoch made a remarkable recovery capped by her being named to the National Field Hockey Coaches Association All-American second team.

"The All-American honor is very rare for the Hampton Roads area and means she is one of the top 30 plyers in the nation," Tabb coach Wendy Wilson told the Daily Press.

Enoch, who earned a scholarship to Boston University, spurred the Tigers to their fifth state championship in seven years. She totaled 25 goals and 19 assists in gaining State 4A Player of the Year honors. She produced four goals and two assists in two state tournament victories despite suffering a severe ankle sprain a day before the semifinals.



Evan Sperling

In this era of single-sport specialization, Evan Sperling added a dominant, three-sport finish to his Grafton High School career. The 6-foot-7 University of Virginia baseball recruit quarterbacked the Clippers in football, made the All-4A state first team in basketball and was instrumental in Grafton's repeat as Conference 19 baseball champions.

In addition to his solid work on the mound this spring, Sperling sizzled at the plate. In a six-game tear en route to the conference crown and regional play, he produced 11 hits and 13 runs batted in. His size and arm strength quickly drew Virginia's attention.

His basketball prowess included double-doubles in 20 games, while averaging 19 points and 14.5 rebounds.

College Scholarship Recipient Award

Lucas Beissner

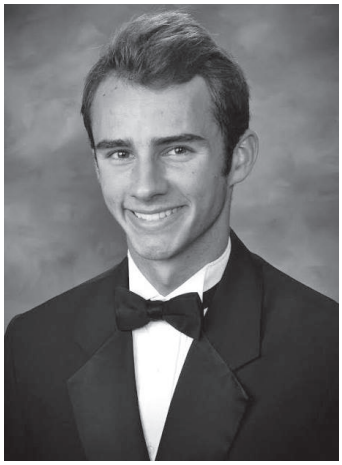
Not many high school athletes compete in a sport for the first time as a junior and make regional competition in their senior year, while maintaining an A-plus grade-point average.

Recent Tabb graduate Lucas Beissner is one of those special individuals. A long-time football and lacrosse player, he added wrestling to his resume as a junior. He finished fourth in his weight class as a senior and advanced to regional competition. He achieved a 4.59 grade-point average and ranked eighth in the 2015 class of 277 students.

"I only wish he would have decided to wrestle earlier," Tabb wrestling Coach Doug Roper said. "He excelled in my world history class and all the other activities he was involved in."

Beissner plans to attend the University of Virginia and anticipates a career as a pilot in the United States Air Force.

THS Tigers



Alexander Bochel

Recent Peninsula Catholic graduate Alex Bochel has a big fan in the school's science department chair Don Pollard.

"Alex is a superb scholar-athlete in three sports, "raved Pollard. "He is aggressive and a thoughtful risk taker. His dynamic leadership and enthusiastic approach to sports are mirrored in his approach to academics. He is ready for life at the university level and will come out a winner."

Bochel plans to attend Virginia Tech University where he will pursue a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering and a masters in biomedical engineering.

He achieved a 4.387 grade-point average and was ranked 15th in the Knights class of 2015.

Bochel excelled in cross country and also lettered in basketball and track.

College Scholarship Recipient Award

Poppy Crawshaw

To truly appreciate the depth of Poppy Crawshaw, one most go beyond the recent Poquoson High graduate's many academic and athletic achievements.

Every fall and spring Saturday for the past three years, Crawshaw attended TOPSoccer where she plays her favorite sport with kids who have mental and physical disabilities.

"TOPSoccer has made me realize that making people smile is something I never want to stop doing," said Crawshaw, who captained Poquoson's girls' soccer and basketball teams, earning all-conference honors in each sport.

Crawshaw's club soccer coach Steve O'Neil introduced her to TOPSoccer.

"The TOPSoccer players absolutely love Poppy to work with them as she is very empathetic and ensures they have a remarkable day. She is a very caring person with a great sense of humor and personality."

Crawshaw ranked 15th in the Class of 2015 with a 4.37 grade-point average. She will attend either James Madison or Virginia Commonwealth University in pursuing her goal to become a computer information systems manager.

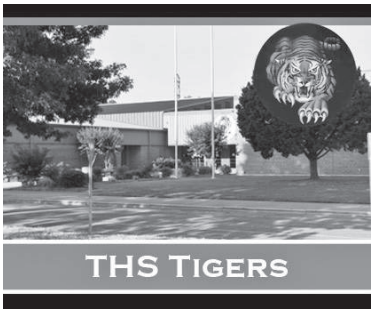
Kelly Gazarik

Kelly Gazarik ranked fourth in Tabb High's Class of 2015 with a 4.7 grade-point average, is a state champion field hockey player and distance runner, a fixture in several academic honor societies and plans to attend the University of Colorado-Boulder in pursuit of a career as a biochemical engineer.

Her outstanding performance in Tabb's Governor's School for Science and Technology includes Regional and State Science Fair honors.

Gazarik credits sports for teaching her leadership, teamwork and perseverance.

"Kelly desires to move into some aspect of biochemical engineering leading to her Ph.D. and with her amazing talents, organizational skills and attention to detail she will have no problem making her dreams come true," said Tabb AP English Instructor Melinda Schenkkan.



College Scholarship Recipient Award

Martine Hunnicutt

Martine Hunnicutt epitomizes the ideal student athlete.

The recent Peninsula Catholic graduate produced a 4.7 grade-point average to rank third in her class and was only the second female in school history to have her cross country/track jersey retired.

A National Honor Society president and frequent community service volunteer, Hunnicutt is also a budding entrepreneur with her own cake business. She will attend the University of Virginia where she will study Kinesiology with an eye on a possible career as a physical therapist.

She led the cross country team to four consecutive VISAA State championships and had an immediate impact being named the Daily Press Cross Country Athlete of the Year as a freshman. She also excelled in outdoor track as a miler and two-miler winning several state championships.

A leg injury as a sophomore proved to be a blessing in disguise for Hunnicutt as she learned rehab techniques that eventually improved her running form and speed.

"You can see the fierce drive, determination and enthusiasm in her face and eyes when she runs, which is mirrored in her daily classroom work," said Peninsula Catholic Science and Math Department Chairman Don Pollard. "She is a superstar at synthesizing information."

Taylor Smith

Taylor Smith didn't know it during the infant stages of her high school volleyball career as a freshman at Heritage, but quickly learned she could evolve as a person and a leader on and off the court.

"Sports made it easy for me to push my boundaries and step out of my comfort zone," said Smith, who began her climb to be the 2015 Heritage valedictorian and the Ironclad Conference Player of the Year. "I made it my mission to go above and beyond in every practice and game to improve. That mindset transferred into my school work and extracurricular activities."

Taylor graduated this month with a 4.18 grade-point average and must choose between eight college's acceptances, including Coker College, Stevenson University and Guilford College. She has her sights set on obtaining a doctorate degree in psychology.

Her many school activities included helping develop the Bayport Student-Run Credit Union, where she honed her skills in customer service, recruiting and banking transactions.

Eric Taleghani

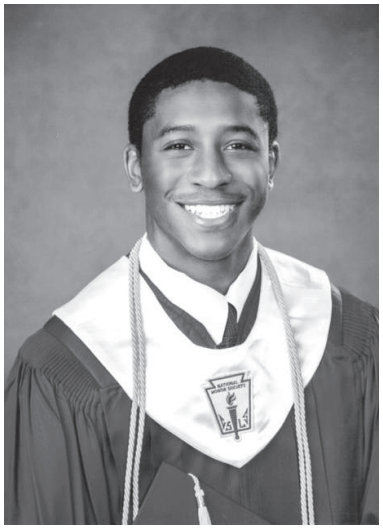
Peninsula Catholic English teacher Mike Pilola knew Eric Taleghani was special long before he became his cross country coach.

"At an age where most of his peers just wanted to fit in, right from the start Eric wasn't afraid to let one of his (ninth grade honors English) classmates know that it was time to quiet down and listen up," Pilola said. "He was a huge factor in the success of that classroom being student-managed instead of teacher- managed. Despite his willingness to present an unpopular view, Eric himself has always been popular, well-liked and respected amongst his peers and faculty."

Taleghani graduated No. 1 in the Peninsula Catholic class of 2015 with a 4.805 grade-point average. He plans to attend the University of Virginia with a goal of being an orthopedic surgeon.

He lettered in three varsity sports as a junior and senior. His forte was cross country where he led the Knights to a sweep of the TCIS, Catholic and VISAA state titles last fall. Taleghani also earned all-state honors as a distance runner in track. He was all-TCIS in basketball and led the team in rebounds.

He was most proud of spurring a mid-season turnaround that sparked the cross country team to its three-title or Triple Crown sweep in 2014.



Rambert Tyree

Rambert Tyree believes his best learning experience at Warwick High School came in his junior football season when the Raiders endured two coaching changes.

"With all the turmoil (of losing two head coaches and their staffs in a seven-game span), I learned that through any and all adversity I must keep fighting forward with my head held high. It is very easy to give up when it gets rough, however it is much better to fight through and achieve success on the other side."

Tyree achieved that success both on the field as a team captain his senior year and in the classroom where he maintained a 4.12 grade-point average to rank 28th in the Class of 2015. He also served as both junior and senior class president.

He expects to attend the University of Virginia and eventually run his own business, supporting both his family and the community.

"Rambert continually challenges himself with a determination I've rarely seen in a student," said Louisa Slagle, his school counselor in the International Baccalaureate program.

Wayne E. Begor Scholarship Recipient Award

Garrett Robinson

Four years of varsity soccer at Woodside High School have helped Garrett Robinson learn the value of hard work and given him an outlet to ease the pressures of the outside world for a while.

Robinson is this year's Wayne E. Begor Scholarship Award winner for the Peninsula Sports Club. Begor devoted much of his life to the development of young people in the Newport News Public School System. He was that city's first Director of Athletics for Public Schools.

Robinson plans to continue his education at James Madison University and hopes to ultimately become a doctor in physical therapy.

Robinson's 3.77 grade-point average earned him a No. 56 ranking in Woodside's Class of 2015. He was the lone freshman to make the varsity soccer team and was an honorable mention all-district player that season. He went on to become a co-captain and was a second team all-district selection as a junior.

He was senior class president and also amassed over 200 hours of volunteer service at Mary Immaculate Hospital and Old Dominion Physical Therapy Center.

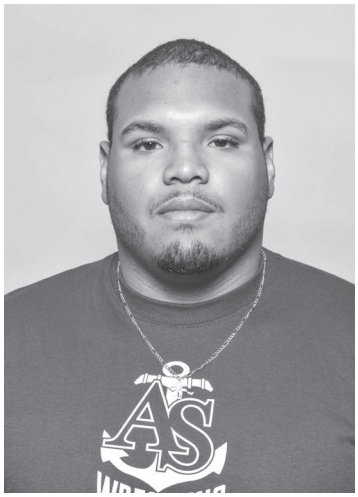
Ian Jones



With a senior season that saw him become the third four-time National Collegiate Wrestling Association (NCWA) All-American in school history and end with academic honors through College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA), Ian Jones will definitely go down as one of the all-time bests to wear an Apprentice School Wrestling singlet.

Jones added another highlight to a stellar career by being named the 2014-15 Apprentice School Athlete of the Year by the Peninsula Sports Club. He becomes the fourth wrestler since 2000 to be named Apprentice School Athlete of the Year joining Darrick Walker (2000), Cecil Lee (2007) and Marcus Chevres (2012) to win the award. Jones will be presented his award at the Peninsula Sports Club Headliners Night on June 29.

His head coach for four years, Bruce Shumaker, is already lamenting the loss of his senior. "Ian Jones will be very hard to replace. Our wrestling team always liked our chances when Ian went on the mat for his bout," said Shumaker. "I'll take about 15 more wrestlers like him. Smart, dedicated and team oriented from the first day. We already miss him."

A native of Painesville, Ohio, Jones finished his career in March by coming in fourth place at the NCWA Nationals in Allen, Texas. With his finish, he joined Lee and Chevres as the only four-time NCWA All-Americans in school history. He ended his senior campaign with a 41-9 record with 20 of those wins by fall. In his final season he had winning streaks of 12, 11 and nine while also becoming a four-time Virginia Sports Information Directors Association (VaSID) All-State selection making him the first four-time honoree for the Builders.

For his career, he set a school record with 156 wins and ended second in wins by fall with 68. He was consistent throughout his four years with win totals of 32, 41, 42 and 41.

Having an older brother who was finishing up his apprenticeship gave Jones an early look at the school and what was expected of an apprentice, who in this case also wanted to continue his wrestling career. "With my older brother (Ramon) attending the school three years prior to me, I had heard a lot of things about the shipyard," he said. "Simply enough the idea that I would be able to do something that I love (wrestling), have a job and get my education in one spot made my choice of schools easy."

Facing the fact of coming to a unique school where you would be up early and work along with going to school and then get on the mat, Jones relied on his wrestling background to get through when times were tight. "Wrestling was the biggest help when it came to the transition into college and the work life. Wrestling kept me motivated not only on the mat but on the job eager to learn and be the best at what I was doing," Jones said. "Waking up every morning at 5am to go to work can be a struggle, but knowing what I had to look forward to at the end of the journey to be able to participate in something that I absolutely loved made it all worth it."

His supervisor in the Heavy Metal Fabrication department, Justin Fisher, spoke highly of the work ethic and commitment to safety Jones displays on the job. "Ian helped out in our safety section here and did a tremendous job working under Scott Dye. He definitely set the bar really high on this rotation," he said. "Ian led the roll out of "Built to Move" here in our shop by working with Tidewater Physical Therapy as he helped establish the administrative controls around the presses in X15. He was highly praised by SFA Director Barry Fallon on his follow up daily to get these controls in place. Safety was something Ian took seriously as an apprentice and now as a graduate. He continues to do well in all areas and strives to be the best."

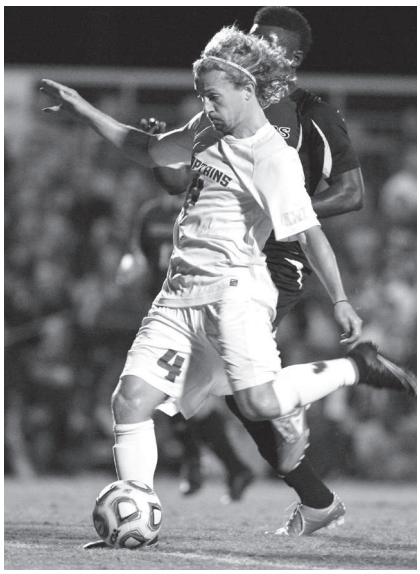
Jalon Brown

CNU senior forward Jalon Brown became the first player in program history to earn first team All-American honors twice in his career when he was named to the D3soccer.com squad this fall. The Captains leading scorer was named to his second straight D3soccer.com first team All-America squad, while also earning second team All-American honors from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA). He is one of only two players to earn All-American laurels three times in his career, and he captured first team All-Conference and All-State honors all four years.

A forward from Yorktown, Va., Brown finished with a number of program-best marks after an illustrious career at the top of a dominant offense. He is the Captains' all-time leader in goals scored and total points, finishing with 52 goals and 134 points. The three-time Conference Player of the Year saved his finest season for last, scoring 47 points on 20 goals and seven assists. The 47-point effort is the second most in a single season at CNU, along with the 20 goals scored.

He picked up his second straight CAC Player of the Year honors after leading the league in total points and goals scored. He ranked ninth nationally in goals scored and tenth in total points, while leading a record-breaking team offense that ranked third nationally in both categories.

During the year, Brown posted a pair of hat tricks and five game-winning goals. He also helped guide the Captains to the second most wins in program history, and one of the finest overall marks at 19-3-5 for a 79.6% winning percentage. He helped the team score three road victories in the CAC Championship Tournament, capturing the first league title for men's soccer in the CAC, and led the Captains to their fourth NCAA Tournament National Quarterfinal appearance.



HAMPTON UNIVERSITY ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

Vendula Strakova

For the second straight year, Vendula Strakova was an AVCA All-America Honorable Mention and an All-East Region selection. She was also named the ECAC Offensive Player of the Year, after picking up MEAC Player of the Year and MEAC Tournament Most Outstanding Player honors for the second straight season. She was also named Hampton University Female Student-Athlete of the Year. Strakova is the program's all-time kills leader with 1,725 career kills, and her 691 kills this past season are the most in a single season in program history. Strakova ranked second in the nation in both total kills and kills per set (5.81), and her 6.54 points per set were also the second-best average among all Div. I players.

Christopher French

Christopher Alexander French has played soccer from the early age of 3. He was a member of the Summit Christian Academy team that had an undefeated soccer season in 2012. His commitment and joy for the game, led him to continue playing soccer at Tomas Nelson Community College (TNCC). Last fall, French was the starting sweeper (defense) for TNCC. His participation as a defender was pivotal for a defensive unit that defeated several four year college and university club soccer teams. He also had one assist from his defensive position. This spring at the Gators Student-Athlete Awards Reception, Christopher, received the Coach's Award for Sportsmanship for his determination, dedication and demeanor as teammate. French's hard work and determination on the field transitioned to studies and life goals as well.

THOMAS NELSON™
The Peninsula's Community College

Christopher's hard work on the field was also displayed off the field in the classroom. He graduated from Thomas Nelson Community College on March 14th and was awarded the Associate of Science degree in Science. He completed 70 credits with a GPA of 3.37. His academic achievement in his curriculum of study has led to his acceptance to Virginia Commonwealth University and receiving a Merit Scholarship for Electrical Engineering. After completing his bachelor's degree requirements at VCU, he intends to continue his education, with the ultimate goal of achieving a Ph. D in Electrical Engineering. His career goal is to be a professor at either a community college or four year college/university to pay it forward with others who are interested in the STEM field.

Christopher is being recognized for his achievements in athletics but his involvement in the community and his impact on the lives of others is life-long and more impressive. His personal and professional goals reflect his actions in life. He has spent several years doing short-term mission work in New Mexico, Georgia, Florida, California, and England. After graduating from high school, he spent a year in England as a youth worker. The area where he volunteered, Middlesbrough, had been ranked as one of the most challenging places to live in the United Kingdom. As a youth worker, he co-facilitated after-school programs for children ranging in ages 5-14. He also went into schools and assisted faculty working with difficult students. His skill set as a football player (soccer) was indispensable to the community and led him to coach a team. As a coach, Christopher was able to make connections to young people that others were unable to reach. He spent many hours transforming a warehouse into a sports and activity center for the community. This center included a skate park, basketball court and use for other athletic activities. He has also volunteered as a youth director for various weekend conferences helping to organize and entertain children for three day conferences. Christopher's selection as the "TNCC Athlete of the Year" continues a family tradition of athletic achievement. His grandfather, Buddy Nagele received the Table of Champions honor from the Peninsula Sports Club in 1994 for umpiring in the Little League Girls Softball World Series.

His TNCC soccer coach, Dione James, expresses the following about Christopher, "There is no other student-athlete more deserving of the Peninsula Sports Club Award than this fine gentleman. He went the extra mile on the field while still being an excellent student, which clearly indicated he knew where his priorities needed to be focused. He is a leader, listener, and hard worker who is passionate about everything he involves himself in especially sports. For him soccer is not just a sport, but an art! His sportsmanship and personal ethics are the primary reasons why Christopher Alexander French is Thomas Nelson Community College's student-athlete recipient of the Peninsula Sports Club Award."

Kiara Porter

All Kiara Porter does is get faster.

The Virginia Commonwealth senior All-American won four gold medals in the Atlantic 10 Outdoor Championships in May after totaling three golds in leading the Rams to their first A10 Indoor title in February.

For those keeping score, that brings the Tabb High graduate's total to 14 A10 championships in two years. The list includes, two 200 meters, two 400 meters, two 4x100 relays and one 4x400 relay outdoors with two 60 meters, two 200s, two 400s and the triple jump indoors.

"Kiara sacrificed her body and ran seven races in two days for a total of six wins and a third place in the 4x4," said VCU coach Jon Riley after her effort in the 2015 A10 Indoor. "She rewrote all the A10 sprint records and helped the team to their first championship."

Porter, who is relatively small for a sprinter at five feet, uses her size for motivation.

"Being five feet is very uncommon for a 400-meter runner, but it motivates me to defeat all the stereotypes of a typical 400 runner," she said. "Despite my height, I was given a talent and will continue to give it my all every time I step on the track."

She qualified for her third consecutive NCAA Outdoor Championship in the 400 meters with a school record-breaking 51.42 performance to finish fourth in the recent NCAA East Quarterfinals.

Outstanding In-State College Female Athlete of the Year

Billy Russell

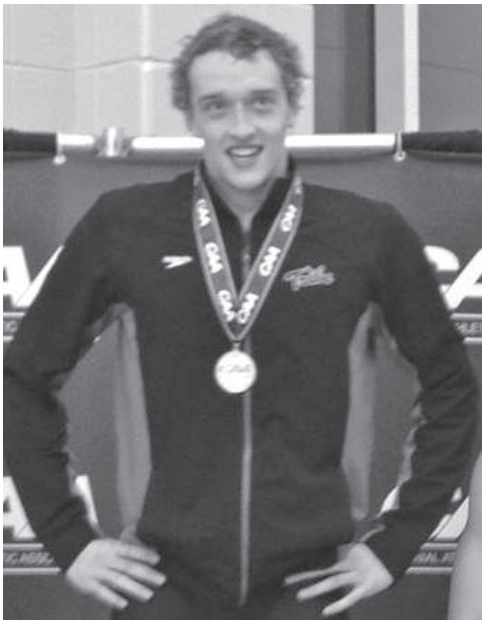
Billy Russell, a Woodside High School alumnus, played a key role in William and Mary's trek to its First Colonial Athletic Association swimming championship.

The junior freestyler finished second in both the 100 and 200 freestyle. He took third place in the 60 freestyle.

Russell also competed on four successful Tribe relay teams, including the meet record-setting 800 freestyle entry that posted a 6:31.07 clocking with him on the anchor leg. He also anchored the winning 200 medley relay and swam preliminary legs on the winning 400 freestyle and runner-up 200 freestyle entries.

For the season, he posted the Tribe's top individual times in the 50 freestyle (20.5), the 100 (44.51) and the 200 (1:37.97) His 189.25 season point production was the team's fifth highest output.

Russell, the first man to break 45 seconds in the 100 freestyle in school history, won five conference titles and set nine school records as a sophomore.



Adrienne Motley

A repeat selection, Motley obliterated any talk of a sophomore basketball jinx at the University of Miami.

The former Woodside High all-state performer started all 33 games in the backcourt for the Hurricanes, averaging 16.9 points, 4.2 rebounds and 2.1 assists. She led the team in field goals (214), field goal percentage (49.2), free throws made (94), free throw percentage (76.4) and steals (47).

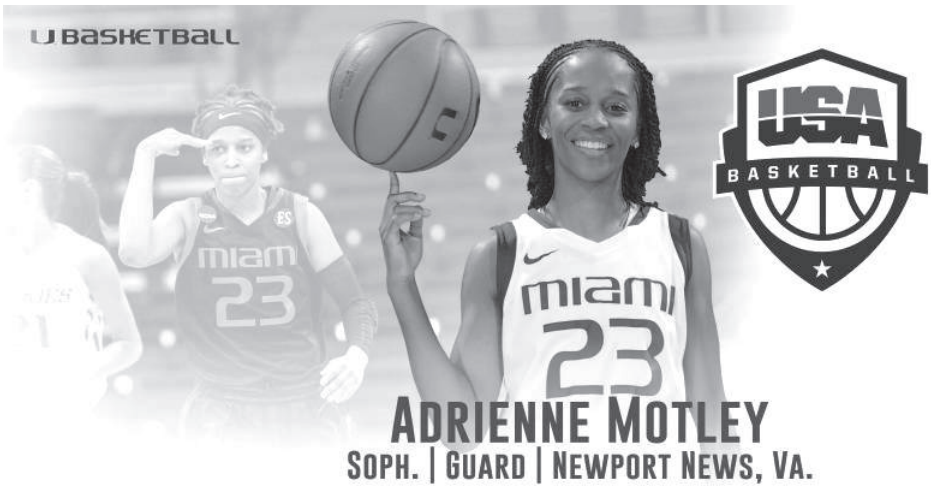
Motley was the only Atlantic Coast Conference player to rank in the top 15 in scoring, field goal percentage, free throw percentage and three-point percentage.

She was named first team all-ACC and was the National Player of the Week on 1/12/15.

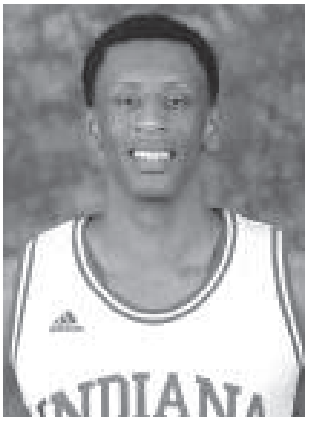
She scored double figures in 29 games, including a 30-point performance in Miami's first round NCAA victory over Washington.

In May, she was selected for the USA Women's Basketball Pan American and World University Games Team Trials roster.

"This is a huge honor for Adrienne," Miami coach Katie Meier said on the school's website. "She definitely fits the USA Basketball mold and is one of the nation's elite players. She's special because she makes the right play with the ball and her defense has really, really improved."



Troy Williams



Indiana rising junior Troy Williams has progressed mightily since his high school basketball days at Phoebus and Oak Hill Academy.

After a learning freshman campaign for the Hoosiers, Williams started 28 games as a sophomore forward. He responded well, averaging 13 points and 7.4 rebounds, while shooting 54 percent. Those efforts earned the 6-foot-7 Hampton native honorable mention All-Big Ten honors.

He was named Big Ten and Oscar Robertson National Player of the Week on Dec. 22. He recorded 11 points, 12 rebounds and four assists in the second round of the NCAA Tournament versus Wichita State for his sixth double-double of the season.

Williams, whose uncle Marcellus "Boo" Williams starred at Phoebus High and St. Joseph's University before his legendary run as an AAU coach and administrator, looks forward to the coming season.

Indiana has all its starters back and is getting preseason national ranking billing.

"When we found out everybody was coming back and found out about the recruiting class, it was a great feeling," Williams said on the school's website. "Everybody is happy and I can't wait for the season."
